

Degeneration: A Post-Apocalyptic Novella

DeKalb is from the Middle Quadrant, Third Tier. One of the exclusive card-holding members of the last human/s on Earth. The illustrious group of Leftovers.What would you do if you woke up one morning and found that everyone you knew, everyone around you, has died of an unknown cause? Would you explore the remnants of civilization in search of fellow survivors? Would you just hole up in your own little corner of the world and fortify your home? Would you collapse under pressure and simply give up? Or would you defy the odds, fight back, and seek out the truth to unanswered questions? June 15, 2012 will go down in history as the day that humans came close to extinction. This is what happened next. From the book: There's always going to be bad people around. End of the world or not. And then there are the good eggs. I always believed that the best time to see the true nature of a person was during a crisis. Question is, when it really mattered, when all you can count on was yourself, when others may be counting on you, when you looked into a mirror, do you see a hero or a villain?
