

Learning Unlimited: The home-based education case files

Gathered by Professor Roland Meighan, this is a collection of 15 dramatised, inspirational case files illuminating events participating families encountered during their day to day home education lives often including how families began their journey and came to make a break with school. This title will encourage and inspire families considering home education as a way forward. They are simply written, presenting events in an easy and accessible read. While names, and many locations have been changed to protect the identity of families, all the incidents described are based on real events. Written by the highly influential UK professor of education, Roland Meighan, author of many books on home education (homeschooling).
